

27 Miles: The Tank's Journey Home

One law enforcement wife's struggle to bring her husband home following a devastating car crash

Lisabeth Mackall, M.S. CCC-SLP

Life can change in an instant, and when it does, nothing after that moment is the ever the same again.

When Lisabeth received the dreaded Knock on the Door to inform her that her husband, Officer Frank Mackall, had been in a terrible car crash, she knew that life was over as she had known it. When she arrived at the hospital, she was hit with the reality that her husband had a severe brain injury, and that he was in a coma.

Every family has a story - Every story is important

The journal-based story 27 Miles: The Tank's Journey Home is a real life walk through one family's trauma journey, and how they lived each day with the single focus to bring Officer Mackall home.

"On January 2, 2012, my world was destroyed when I received a knock on the door informing me that my husband, Officer Frank Mackall, had been in a devastating car crash while on duty and had suffered a severe brain injury. Our ongoing story of recovery brings to life the true nature of a family trauma, and how even in the deepest place of fear, you can find joy, peace and strength."

Lisbeth is a speech-language pathologist with 18 years of management and leadership experience in the medical field . To schedule a workshop or presentation, please contact Lisabeth Mackall at Lisabeth@lisabethmackall.com or by phone at 651-319-1916. Visit www.LisabethMackall.com for blog updates, and on Facebook at Mackall Family Journey